Best Thing I Ever Saw.
The following is an extract from a letter written by D. A. Reynolds, editor and proprietor of the Herald, Lyons, Michigan, under date of January 11th, 1889: "You will observe my position on the first page of the Herald, while other proprietors' medicines have had to take the run of the paper. The reason for doing this, is that upon receiving your 'cough' a number of the cures effected seemed similar to that of which my little son was suffering, a case of blood poison, or irritable sores breaking out all over his body. To-day he is entirely free from disease and one bottle of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) did the work. Now this is the reason for giving you the position, as I consider Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) the best medicine I ever saw. I wish you unlimited success in your business."

The above is a sample of letters which are coming to us all the time. S. S. S. is nearer infallible than any remedy made, and has probably done more good than any medicine known to mankind. We will mail a Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases to all who will send their address. SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Georgia.

The First Step.
Perhaps you are down, can't eat, can't sleep, can't think, can't do anything to your satisfaction, and you wonder what ails you. You should heed the warning, you are taking the first step into Nervous Prostration. You need a Nervous Tonic and in Electric Bitters you will find the exact remedy for restoring your nervous system to its normal, healthy condition. Surprising results follow the use of this Nervous Tonic and Restorative. Your appetite returns, good digestion is restored, and the Liver and Kidneys resume healthy action. Try a bottle. THE EDITOR'S CHAIR.

HOW THINGS LOOK FROM OUR STAND POINT.

The Opinion of The Caucasian and the Opinion of others which we Can Endorse on the Various Topics of the Day.

We have been asked to explain the cause of cyclones. The following is the generally accepted theory: The ordinary cyclone is formed by the meeting of two currents of air, one cold and the other hot. The cold current comes generally from the northwest and the hot current from the southwest. By reason of the meeting there is an upward rush of air and the conjoined currents move onward with a spiral motion and in a direction which is usually a compromise between the two original directions. Therefore these storms most frequently rush eastward, governed more or less by the stronger of the two currents.

The tornado wears itself out in a comparatively short time by the rapid cooling of the heated column of air. Its path is narrow, not more than half a mile in width, and the great black cloud of wind bounds over the earth as if it were a huge rubber ball. Sometimes it jumps forward, skipping places that lie directly in its path. Natural objects deflect it or help to dissipate it.

The sad announcement of the death of Hon. Sam'l Randall appears in another column. The country suffers a great loss and his place in Congress, we fear, will long remain unfilled. During the dark days of reconstruction, in the face of unpopularity and denunciation at the North, he stood firm and steadfast, demanding that justice should be done the South. He opposed the objectionable amendments to the Constitution and demanded that the disabilities of every Southern man should be removed. Blaine, in his 'Twenty years in Congress,' says:

"He is fair-minded towards his political opponents, generous to his friends, makes no compromise with enemies, never neglects his political duties and never forgets the interest of the Democratic party."

This is very true, with one exception, he forgot the interests of the Democratic party when he voted against a reduction of the tariff. But he was forced to do so, we suppose, to represent his constituents, who were manufacturers and, of course, protectionists. In the spring of 1889 we spent several days in the galleries of Congress and there was then in the body no man whose commanding personal appearance elicited as much admiration from us. The average member of Congress talks amid noise and confusion. No one pays attention, knows or cares what he is saying. But we remember distinctly one morning when Randall arose to speak, how the great disorderly body of men grew quiet and every eye was turned toward that born leader—that king of men, and how his strong, clear and logical sentences fell with force, weight and conviction.

Mr. Randall entered Congress in 1863, was elected Speaker in 1876 and was re-elected twice. He was a leading candidate for the Presidency in 1880, but Hancock was nominated. Nothing but his views on the tariff defeated him for the nomination.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. THE MONETIZATION OF LAND.

A New and Safe Edition of Free Banking—An Ideal Currency.

BY F. R. COOPER.

NO. 2.

Mr. Editor: Of all the evils that afflict the industrial classes this country the greatest is our national banking system. Previous to 1860 we had what is known as free banking. The system was briefly this. Any persons who so desired could form themselves into a bank. They were required to keep on deposit as a security for the redemption of their notes one dollar in coin for every three dollars in notes issued by them. Money was cheap and could be easily obtained upon reasonable security. The country was exceedingly prosperous. The defect in the system was the organization of many wild-cat banks and a lack of safety. It often happened that the bank failed and its notes became worthless, then creating a feeling of insecurity. Such a currency lacked one desirable element—safety, cannot this be remedied and the principle of free banking with its many good features preserved? Suppose we had free banking and a company should be formed in Clinton with a capital of one hundred thousand dollars. Now let them invest that capital in State banks to be kept in the State treasury as a security that the bills issued would be paid. Then let them pledge as additional security to the same effect two hundred thousand dollars in imperishable seal estate. They have then perfect security for the redemption of their bills to the amount of three hundred thousand dollars. Let the bank then be organized and issue bank bills to circulate as currency to the amount of three hundred thousand dollars. Such a currency would be perfectly safe and have the full confidence of all. It would be impossible for the President or cashier to skip to Canada with either the land or the bonds. Such a currency would also be perfectly flexible, that is its volume would increase or diminish according to the demand. If such a bank should keep its bills all loaned out at 5 per cent interest would fall to about 3 per cent and even at this low rate such a bank would make about 10 per cent on the capital invested. There you see Mr. Editor, such a currency would not only be perfectly safe but perfectly flexible and responsive to demand. Land would rapidly increase in value by being made the basis of the currency. A spirit of enterprise would awake and the slumbering energies of our people be called into action.

As matters now stand many profitable enterprises fail for want of capital. Interest is too high and money too hard to get. An ideal currency is one that is safe, flexible, cheap and not liable to become concentrated in the money centers, and a currency such as we have indicated would possess all these elements in the highest possible degree.

Give us the monetization of land, and instead of the present depressed condition of Agriculture and growing poverty among our farmers, the prosperous days from 1850 to 1860 would come again and the wheels of industry revolve with newness of life.

If we are in error in this matter we hope some one will be sagacious enough to point out our mistakes. One thing is certain—the people need and mean to have relief from the monstrous financial system which is crushing them under the feet of bond holders and national banks.

We remember in our school boy days that in our Algebra were many problems with "an-

WOMAN'S SPHERE.

DRESS.

It is every woman's duty, first to herself, second to her family, and third to society to appear neat, attractive and to an advantage in every way possible.

THE FLESHY WOMAN'S MISTAKE.

Tight bodices are gradually giving place to various fashions which are more easy and healthful. Therefore, the irritating process of fitting a tight basque no longer need concern the amateur dressmaker. Gowns made half tight at the waist—that is, with long, sloping seams curving from the waist down in the skirt, as in the polonais or "princess" dress—reveal the undulations of the figure and give also the effect of slenderness. A girdle, worn underneath, drawing in the back seams, and thus showing the graceful hollow of the back, may be worn, and such a gown should be fastened at the back.

One of the opening chapters of George Eliot's "Romola" is illustrated by a picture showing the heroine arrayed in the simple fashion of that period. She stands at a reading desk, beside her father, one hand resting upon the extended arm of the lamp. Her hair is partly confined by a fillet, her square-necked, plain-breasted gown is not tight, yet falls smoothly, fits well and is classical. In it she appears tall and slender.

Stout people have a horror of loose gowns, and lace themselves within an inch of their lives. Why should they? I once knew a cherubic young lady who, even before the plain, tight waist began to yield to various modifications, made her waists plain, but loose at the waist, as she said, like a "baby's slip." It made her appear infantile, hence attractive. She had learned how to turn her physical defect to advantage. Had she belaced herself, she would have indicated her rotundity the more, the extreme difference between bust and waist line only serving to point what she wished to obscure. Evenness is the object to be attained.

If the stays are worn sufficiently loose to allow deep, easy inhalation, a stout person's figure will appear straighter, far less rotund—especially if the gown worn fall smoothly from the shoulder, and half tight or in straight plaits over the waist line. That tight lacing increases fullness about the upper portion of the body is proved by the fact that girls with scrawny necks have often been known to lace tightly that their "necks might appear fatter!"—a questionable advantage with the purplish floridity this process insures to the skin.

FASHION NOTES.

White toilets will be in vogue this summer; green is unquestionably in mode; brown is the poet's color, and the yellow tints, particularly baize, primrose, apricot and cameo are on the top wave of popularity.

Round French waists without darts or side bodies and shirred at the neck and waist line, front and back, are first choice for summer fabrics and slight figures. Full leg-o'-mutton and bishop sleeves go with these bodies very nicely.

If you want to seem tall and commanding carry a white parasol and wear a white hat or white attire.

In the new style of dress the woman of fashion is a revelation. She cuts a figure unprecedented in the history of togethery. She is not only newly dressed, but remodelled, made over, reformed. And what is most singular she has freedom of locomotion, elasticity, grace and, it is said, comfort. She is not tied back, not laced, not hampered by petticoats and not weighed down with a bustle extender or crinoline. Just how it is made we do not know.

Those who affect the French designs wear what we might call smart dresses; those who effect the English, wear simple and severe costumes.

Just now there is a rage for millinery oddities, the quaintest of which is the butterfly bonnet. A Parisian novelty originally designed for some stage beauty. The entire crown was formed of an exact reproduction of the body and wings of a butterfly in ruby velvet, the body being lined with jet of variegated tints. Along the brim falling on the butterfly bonnet hair was a dainty bordering of ruby feathers, surmounted by a twisted tiara of velvet. These butterfly bonnets are also brought out in black, white and colored net tulle, the gauzy wings being sprinkled with gold and crystal that glitters and shines in beauty under lamp light.

The straight shapeless wrapper and Mother Hubbard, which have so distressed husbands and brothers are happily disappearing, and being supplanted by the graceful gown and the clinging princess dress.

THE TABLE.

It has been said, "there are but a few things on which health and happiness depend more than on the manner in which food is cooked."

At this season of the year our appetite fails us more than at any other time, and cooks are more put to their wits to know what to prepare and how. Allow us to make a few suggestions. If you have mutton, lamb, kid or a pig don't cook it the same way you have a hundred times before. Any or all of the above would be stuffed and baked. The stuffing should be made of bread crumbs, into which, after being boiled, break a few eggs, and add a little butter, pepper, salt, sage, thyme, onion or vegetable garlic. Mix well till about the consistency of thick mush. Boil the meat till tender, make holes in it on the flesh side with a knife and push in the stuffing. The skin side of the meat ought also to be scarred in checks and a little of the stuffing laid into the scores. This flavoring will permeate the entire piece of meat to the bone, and the flavor is delicious.

By exchanging parsley for garlic in the above flavoring, it would be nice with fish. Instead of chopping a fish up cross wise and frying for each day, bake it whole using this dressing. The outside of the fish should be scarred lengthwise and some of the dressing laid into the scores, with bits of fat meat, lard or butter. This will prevent the meat from being dry. In using the above flavorings be careful not to put in too much.

A TIMELY SUGGESTION.

What Clinton Might Become,

WITH A LARGE HOTEL, A FIRST CLASS LIVERY STABLE, NICE DRIVERS AND A PRETTY PARK.

THOMASVILLE, GA., April 7, 1890.

Dear OLD CAUCASIAN.

Mr. Editor: I wish to speak to my Clinton friends a word on a subject that should interest them. Thomasville, Ga., is quite a winter resort for northern people, and let me ask why Clinton can't be made a stopping place for them on their way back North. Mr. Editor, it can be done and let me tell the people of Clinton how to go about it in order make it a success. In addition to good hotels, there must be good market kept, also have nice drives and a good livery stable. I have seen enough the last two years to convince me that Clinton can induce capital to stop there. People from the North are real anxious to come South and spend their winters in order to look around for a place to invest and remember wherever they stop more or less money is left behind them. Then Clinton should arrange for good drives, city Park and nice Livery. I will be pleased to do anything in my power to insure her good crop of tourist the first season.

Sampson county is as good county as there is anywhere; all that is wanting there is a few people with plenty money and willing also ready to spend it. I do hope that a meeting will be held soon among the good people of Clinton and take steps towards fixing up a park. People, as all are aware, in bad health after riding out, want a park where they can go and spend a few hours. A fifty thousand dollar hotel well advertised will certainly be a good investment for the people of Clinton. Many here will soon leave for different points in North Carolina.

My advice to all the boys in Sampson is this, to stay at home and help build up their own State. There is an old man here seventy four years old that told me a few days ago as soon as he got able he was going back to his native State. He left North Carolina when he was sixteen years old and he said to me with tears in his eyes, "Georgia is a good State but there is no place like my old home." I hope that 1890 will bring many new names on the CAUCASIAN, already large list of subscribers. Success to North Carolina and especially Sampson county. Regards to my many friends in and around Clinton. Mr. Editor please send me THE CAUCASIAN. I am as ever,

Alliance Department.

[THE CAUCASIAN was adopted as the official organ of the County Alliance by the County Alliance, January 19th.]

FARMERS' ALLIANCE.

Let the Alliance Teach Them to Commence the Reform at Home.

The following is the opinion of a successful farmer: If we would be prosperous, contented and happy we must raise our own supplies. There are scores upon scores of farmers who scarcely have a home made article about them, and right here I would include all classes to a certain extent. Visit their homes and we would find they must have yankee chairs, yankee bedsteads, yankee bureau, yankee shovel and tongs, and yankee center table piled up with stacks of agricultural journals published in Louisville, Kentucky, or Springfield, Ohio. Go to the kitchen and you will find a yankee stove, yankee bucket, yankee dipper, yankee towel, yankee soap and a great many other articles. You scarcely see a home made article unless a few roasted sweet potatoes. Go to the smoke house, brother farmers, and we will find a piece of white Chicago meat, a piece of a barrel of Minnesota flour, a small quantity of Irish potatoes from Maine, a small stack of Chicago lard, a bag of Richmond meal, a keg of scalded Cuba molasses, and a jug of vinegar from New Jersey. Go to the barn and there you will find his Kentucky mule or mules, fed on shipstuffs from Baltimore, mixed with hay from Illinois, cut with a knife from New York; his wagon is from Michigan, his harness from Massachusetts, his plow from Pennsylvania, his buggy from Ohio, and even the old guano sacks about have on them Rhode Island.

I have not named an article but could be raised in North Carolina. It will pay no farmer to raise cotton and buy his supplies. For the sake of coming generations and the love we cherish for our common country, let us encourage home industry and try to plaster our State over with spare-ribs, back bones and sausages, instead of mortgages.

It has not been very long since a mercantile gentleman told me that some farmers, so called, would come to town and give mortgages to the amount of forty or fifty dollars and trade out every cent of it before they left town. Let us practice economy and stop this universal and inexcusable waste.

The more you have to buy the more chances you give the high war tariff and the heartless speculator to rob you. Until these incursions can be struck from our body politic and we have God grant that the day is near at hand) it is wisdom for us to live like the oyster, in his shell, and "untie himself alone." In short we can boycott them by raising our home supplies.

How to Live at Home and Board at the Same Place.

(Special to THE CAUCASIAN.)

Of all poor devils, the average poor farmer has the hardest times. His hogs die of cholera and he "geteth" no more meat unless he "mortgageth" his last bull yearling. His days are full of vexation, and his quinine is mixed with rye and cowpess. He worketh hard day by day and the money sharks geteth his effects at their own figures. He is not asked what he will take for his produce, but taketh what he can get and no use of grumbling. How long, O how long before he will be a free man! The "niggers" say they wouldn't take anything for their freedom, but this poor white man hath none worth a mention. The Alliance promiseth him freedom but he heedeth not the call, and goeth on grumbling and complaining, and if he joineth and geteth not a barrel of flour gratis he sayeth the Alliance is of no account, and he falleth out with it and scatcheth abroad he good intentions (provided he ever had any) and declareth the Alliance will never accomplish anything, because he could not break it down, and the last state of this man is about 10 degrees below naught. But, if he will work 12 months in the year instead of 4, and use economy, make more cattle, and give better attention to his hogs, he will soon begin to be able to live at home and board at the same place. A LETTER FROM CUMBERLAND.

Cedar Creek, N. C.

Mr. Editor: The farmers in this section are very busy preparing to plant and planting corn. Every body seems to have gone to work with renewed effort, I don't think the farmers are buying as much prepared guano as formerly but using more Acid Lime &c, making their own fertilizers, which I think will pay much better than to use so much prepared guano. The Farmers Alliance is moving forward in a quiet but determined way in this section. The good resulting from the Farmers Alliance is plainly to be seen. They are using more economy &c, they seem to be a unit for good and in union there is always strength. May they live up to the principles of the Alliance and prove a great blessing to the farmers of our land.

Miss Georgia Vickers an accomplished lady of Bladen county recently closed a school at the Downing school house near here. She is a very good teacher and a most excellent lady. She will be greatly missed in our midst.

On the night of March the 28th Mr. and Mrs. David T. Averitte who are aged and infirm health were the recipients of a nice little pound by the young people of the neighborhood. To their delight Mr. Averitte made them a nice little talk by way of thanks for the interest they manifested for their comfort.

For the last few weeks there have been a great many shad and some nice rock fish caught in the waters of the Cape Fear river.

At the residence of the brides father, Amos J. Wheelers, on the evening of March 28th 1890, Mr. D. J. Wheeler was married to Miss Lily Wheeler, Rev. W. R. Johnson, officiating.

This section was indeed made sad on Monday morning at the announcement of the death of Henry C. Fisher, Sheriff of Cumberland county. While he will be greatly missed all over the country it will be felt more especially in this section as he was formerly a resident of this township and was a kind, clever gentleman and a most excellent public officer. The family has my sincere sympathy in this their sorrow and bereavement. Much success to THE CAUCASIAN and yours truly,

ASSASSINATED

A Terrible Tragedy in Broad Open Day.

A CITIZEN OF CLINTON MURDERED IN COLD BLOOD.

The Verdict of the Coroner's Jury.

THE DYING MAN'S DECLARATION—HE RECOGNIZES HIS MURDERER.

The Murderer Still at Large.

On last Saturday evening; the 12th, our town was shocked by a cold blooded murder, the most bold, desperate and dastardly deed ever committed during the history of our pretty, law-abiding and hospitable town.

Mr. Ed. N. Butler was the victim of the shocking tragedy. His residence is on Elizabeth street, on the hill just over Dollars Branch. The thick undergrowth of this branch on the east side of the street has not yet given way to the tread of growth and progress, which is making such rapid strides in other quarters. In this thicket, just back of the fence, the ambushed murderer was concealed. His victim left his residence at 1:15 p. m. and started, unsuspectingly, down the sidewalk on the opposite side of the street. When about one hundred yards from his residence, within twenty yards of the hedge, the demon, from ambush, fired upon him. The report was loud and deadly, that of a gun much overloaded. The load went crashing through Butler's body. He did not fall, but stood dazed for a moment, then leaned against the fence. The murderer, fearing that his hellish deed was not effected, stood up from his hiding and began to reload his gun. Butler then hollered for help, whereupon his wife, who was standing on the porch and saw the dreadful tragedy, and several men at work near ran to his assistance. The murderer fled. Butler was borne to his house and Dr. Stevens was summoned. He made an examination and found that the wound was large and ugly. The missile whatever it was, (certainly something larger than a rifle ball) had fractured the upper part of the hip bone, passed through the bowels and lodged in the spinal column. The doctor shook his head and candidly told his patient that he must prepare to meet his God, that his limit of life could not be more than forty-eight hours. The doctor did all in the power of his profession to relieve the sufferings of the unfortunate man till the end should come. On Monday at 12:15, just forty-seven hours after the fatal shot, his spirit passed into eternity.

Dr. R. H. Holliday, the coroner, summoned the following jury: Wm. A. Johnson, J. A. Ferrell, W. S. Peterson, B. B. Hobbs, R. C. Holmes and Abner Merritt. The coroner and the jury immediately decided to have a post mortem examination made, which was done by Dr. J. A. Stevens, the County Superintendent of Health, assisted by Dr. R. H. Holliday. They reported that the missile after entering the upper part of the right hip penetrated the right descending colon (one of the large intestines) and lodged in the spinal column, shattering it, either one of which wounds would have caused death. The doctors found the missile, which was not a bullet, but a piece of a half inch rod of steel about one and one-fourth inches in length. It was flattened and sharp and ragged at one end, just as chopped off at some blacksmith shop. The report of the doctors on the autopsy, together with the slug, was sent into the jury. The dying declaration of the murdered man, stating that he recognized his murderer, had been taken. This was also placed before the jury. The jury then examined several witnesses and then proceeded to make up the verdict, which will not be disclosed, but reported to the next term of Sampson court, according to law.

The deceased was a son of Mills Butler, and was 48 years of age. He leaves a wife and eight or nine children. It was touching to see the infant child, just beginning to walk and having learned to partially articulate only two words, toddling about calling out "papa! mama!" all unconscious that an assassin's hand had left it an orphan.

CLINTON, N. C., APRIL 17, 1890.

The Goldsboro Argus celebrates its 5th anniversary with an eight page illustrated edition. Brother Robinson, we congratulate you upon your enterprise.

We are pained to be forced to put in type the statement and details of so desperate, lawless and shocking a tragedy as the one perpetrated in our town on last Saturday. It sounds as if it might have occurred out on the frontier, in the western wilds, or more appropriately in the Fiji Islands. But it argues nothing against the law-abiding reputation of our people, the high moral tone of our community, for the person who is supposed to have committed the dastardly and heinous deed is not a citizen, one already guilty of many crimes, a deserter from the U. S. Army and an outlaw.

The C. F. and Y. V. Merchants' Excursion is partaking of Wilmington's hospitality to-day. The following is the programme for to-day:

Firemen's parade at 6.30 o'clock P. M. Banquet to-night, beginning at 9 o'clock. Many distinguished speakers.

SAMUEL J. RANDALL DEAD.

[Reg. Cor. THE CAUCASIAN.] WASHINGTON, D. C., April 12th, 1890.

Ex-Speaker Samuel J. Randall, who has for many years occupied a conspicuous place in the front rank of the fighting Democracy of Congress, has made his last appearance upon the political stage. He died yesterday morning at 5 o'clock. He had been confined to his room ever since before Congress met and during last week his case had become almost hopeless. It is very touching to see, as your correspondent did today, two of his Democratic colleagues in the House standing talking of his lamented death with the tears trickling down their cheeks. The funeral obsequies will take place Thursday.

The members of the Pan American Congress will leave here on the 18th inst. for a tour of the South. They will return May 10.

By information gathered from the county Superintendents of the respective counties, it has been ascertained that more than half of the public school teachers of the State do not subscribe for a newspaper. This may be so as an average over the State, but it is not true of Sampson county. For we think that nearly every teacher in this county reads THE CAUCASIAN. Commenting on the sad fact as stated above, the Wilmington Messenger says:—

If it is a fact that more than one half of the public school teachers in North Carolina do not subscribe to a newspaper, it is a reflection on their intelligence and perhaps qualifications to meet the demands of their place. They live in ignorance in an age of peculiar activity and enlightenment. The boards having charge in the counties might insist that teachers should read at least a good, sound weekly paper—religious or secular. If teachers act upon the theory or presumption that "ignorance is bliss, it is folly to be wise," they are hardly capable of teaching the young North Carolina idea how to shoot correctly.

swer" at the close. So with this question. The problem is "how to relieve the industrial classes." The answer is, "by giving them a safe and abundant currency which they can get for three per cent. interest." The problem and answer are plain. The trouble is giving a practical solution. We are satisfied that the solution is possible and we believe that we have given it correctly, but if it will sit down and let the question be passed to the next.

We wish to say in this place that the scheme here outlined, while supplanting the National Banks, would not in the least interfere with the Farmers' Alliance Warehouse bill introduced by Senator Vance and which, by the way, has a most commendable object in view and would doubtless accomplish great good. Why not have both?

THE BLESSED IN GIVING.

At the Presbyterian church last Sabbath Dr. B. F. Marable preached from the text: "It is more blessed to give than to receive."—Acts xx, 35.

The divine stated that this great truth was supposed by many to have been uttered by Jesus in his sermon on the Mount, but such was not the case. We would naturally look for it in the account of the life and saying of Christ as given by one of the four apostles, but their writings contain no record of any such statement. Yet the Lord Jesus is the author of that sentence, and those who believe the New Testament must accept it as a truth, though human nature as we find it, stands out to contradict it. If the question was to be argued before a jury, with the experience of human nature contending on one side against Revelations on the other, that He as the advocate of the negative, of human nature could make out a clear case of the falsity of the statement.

What is the chief end of man? To this question Revelations answers, "To love God and enjoy him for ever." But what is the answer of human nature, of human experience to this question? "To gain, to get all you can and to hold to what you get."

Of those who are not real and professed Christians, the upright and moral man strives to accumulate, using every means within the bounds of honesty; the sharp, shrewd unprincipled man knows no limit to his means of gain, save the vengeance of the law, a still lower class of men disregard all appearance of honesty, defy the law, go to the desperate limit of life itself to get and hoard up gain. The testimony of all these men is that receiving is more blessed than giving. There are various classes of givers: One gives to charitable purposes because it is a good investment, a good advertisement, assists him to make more gain; another gives because it is fashionable, another because a friend asks him to do so, and so on, but none of them because they are happy in doing so, not because they experience soul-pleasure in giving. The testimony of all these men will be against the truth of our text.

Yes, the whole history of the past and the examples of the present speak out in thunder tones that gain, gain is the great desideratum of mankind. But our text is not only the voice of inspiration, it is more. It is the voice of God himself, and He is true. Then what does our text mean? Let us answer by asking: For whom is it more blessed to give than to receive? Ah! now we have it. The regenerated, the renewed man. We cannot see that for which we have no eyes; we cannot hear that for which we have no ears; we cannot feel that for which we have no spiritual heart. The renewed man, the consecrated Christian alone can understand, can appreciate, can feel the blessedness of giving. May God help us all to reach that state and experience that blessing.

AMERICA AND AMERICA'S RELIGION.

The New York Star says: The Rev. Dr. Gottlieb lectured in the Temple Emanuel, Fifth Avenue, on the subject, "The Religion of American Not One of Theology." He began his discourse by quoting Mr. Gladstone as saying that the American Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the country are the most wonderful productions which have ever emanated from the brain of man in a given time. He said: "We have the testimony of England's greatest statesman endorsing the divorce of Church and State, while he is not only a profound scholar, but a staunch supporter of that church."

The preacher pointed out that both nations had benefited by the Declaration of Independence. "What shall we say?" he added. "That the United States Government is without religion? By no means. I hold that there is no earthly government which has more sound religious principles embodied in its system. Our form of republican government is the essence of religion—namely, individual self-government."

When the framers of that Constitution said, "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by the Creator with certain inalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," they preached a grand sermon on the Golden Rule: "Do unto others as you would they should do unto you." When they said that the doors of our land shall be open to the oppressed and outcast of all nations, they taught the old Mosaic law: "Thou shalt not oppress the stranger."

In concluding, Dr. Gottlieb said: "No finer flower has God planted on this earth than this great American Nation, and may he defend it from internal troubles and dissensions, so that it may increase in prosperity, peace and power."

There is an epidemic of curvatures of the spine among our city officials all over the land. In morals the curved line is not the line of beauty, nor is the arched backbone the secret of strength.

Public Lecture.

The address of Mr. Marion Butler at Laurel Hill last Friday evening was able and instructive. It was brimful of ugly facts and burning truths. He discussed the tariff, the reciprocity of labor and the monetary question with such perspicuity and force that even those not familiar with these subjects in the abstract were deeply interested and went away with something to think about. We hope the Lecturer will tell the same facts in every section of the county.

There are 2,098 Sub-Alliances in the State. There are County Alliances in every county save Alleghany, Davie and New Hanover, and these have Sub Alliances. Wake leads with 57 Alliances, next comes Chatham with 42, Sampson with 49, Robeson with 35, Union with 39, Mecklenburg with 37, Buncombe with 36 and Cleveland with 35. It is estimated that the State Business Agency will save the farmers of this state a half a million dollars on fertilizers alone this year. But if the order can get the legislation demanded, many millions will be annually saved.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

Our report of the first day's proceedings of the Sampson County Farmers' Institute in last week's issue has been read with interest and profit by thousands of farmers. We continue the discussions this week.

The question asked just at the close of the article was: "Explain the making Ensilage and the structure of a silo."

Prof. Massey in answering, said that the key note to successful farming was stock and manure. The farmer in this section must have stock, more stock and better stock, he must have manure, more manure and better manure. Now the home made manure, which is best and cheapest, we can have without keeping stock. Then the question comes, how can we feed the stock so that the food will not cost more than the manure. His opinion based on experience was that Ensilage was the answer.

What is ensilage and how can we make it? To make corn ensilage, we plant corn just as we usually plant it to raise corn, only later, say in June or July. In the fall this corn will have reached the roasting ear state, then (or a little later, say about the time the fodder would do to pull) cut down the stalk, with ear and fodder on it, run it through a feed cutter, ear, stalk and fodder all together, and pack down in your silo. But what is a silo?

The supposed cost of a silo has been a great draw back to ensilage. But the necessary expense is small. The old idea was that a silo must be all or partly under ground bricked and very strong so as to bear great pressure. This is all unnecessary. A silo need be nothing more than a frame (with the ends of the posts in the ground or resting on top of it) double crossed inside with well jointed planks coiled. It needs no floor, but simply a foot of straw spread on the ground for a floor. The cover can either rest on the frame or on four post out several feet from the frame, as the cover should extend several feet over the frame. The ensilage is poured into this frame—the silo from the top. In packing in the ensilage keep it higher around the edges of silo than in the middle so that the chopped ears of corn will roll into the middle. When the silo is full, cover over the top with a layer of the chopped straw. No weighting is necessary. The steam which rises from the ensilage will cause the straw covering to mold, thus hermetically sealing the silo, and making it air tight. In feeding out the ensilage, take a layer from the top at each feeding, give the first layer to the cows and the next to the horse at each feeding. Because that on top sours a little during the day and the cows prefer it in that state while horses do not.

The Professor said that many farmers objected to wasting good corn to make ensilage, but he had cut for ensilage corn that would have made 10 barrels of a ton of ensilage is 60 cents. Land that will make 10 barrels of corn will make 20 tons ensilage, worth $12.00, while the corn at 60 cents a bushel would have been worth only $6.00, so the ensilage was worth double as much as the corn.

He said he fed 32 cows a month on the products of one acre in ensilage, and the cows were in full flow of milk. It would have fed 50 dry cattle.

He had never seen a man who had tried ensilage who would exchange it ton for ton for even clover hay.

Pea ensilage is better than corn, but you can't make so much.

Col. Green said Ensilage originated with France, and is now the universal feed there and in Europe.

Prof. Massey said that we could make ensilage better than the French, for we can heat them raising corn.

Mr. Henry Turlington asked if cane could not make good ensilage. Prof. Massey said it was not so good as corn.

Rev. Mr. Stewart asked what size a silo should be. Prof. Cumberlain said that he should calculate how many he had to feed. 1 cubic foot space holds 40 lbs which is a day's feed for a cow, so make it size to compare with the number of animals to be fed. It should be tall and not wide, so that each day's feed would take off a layer.

"Every Spring," Says one of the best housewives in New England, "We feel the necessity of taking a good medicine to purify the blood, and we all take Hood's Sarsaparilla. It keeps the children free from humors, my husband says it gives him a good appetite, and for myself I am sure I could never go all my work if it was not for this splendid medicine. It makes me feel strong and cheerful, and I am never troubled with headache or that tired feeling, as I used to be."

The verdict of all is that we have not had a better time at any place. Clinton's hospitality can not be surpassed."

—Don't wait for northern capital as long as the southern capital can be found with which to develop the resources of our southland. We can do much by planting infant industries, which in due time, with or without protection, will be able to take care of themselves and to bring in generous returns to those who invest in them. Let northern capitalists come, but let not southern capital lie idle longer.—Atlantic Seaside.

—You have taken my paper and read it, and as an honest man, of course, will pay for it, but you have not yet done so. Excuse me for calling your attention to the fact again, but I need the money. If you can't pay now call up and see me about it. This is not intended for all my subscribers. As I turn the leaves of my mailing book I could call the names, but you know whether it refers to you or not.

—The Ad (Ga.) News says: Capt. O. L. Chestnut's school, one mile south of town has grown so much in members and importance, he has found it necessary to employ an assistant. He has been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Logan People's who has just finished a school in Clinch, and who is in every way competent. The school now numbers about 80. The new building will soon be completed, and they will both have room to spread themselves. Success to the double headed school.

—The second of the series of articles on the Monetization of Land, being written by Mr. P. E. Cooper, who has previously written under the non de plume of "A Collier," appears in this issue. Mr. Cooper is a deep student and a close thinker, and everything that emanates from his pen is worthy of study. We are glad to note that he has made his plan of Free Banking Made Safe with the sub. Treasury plan now before Congress. His plan is to have a banking system with land as the basis instead of government bonds, and let the sub-treasury plan act as a supplementary measure, giving immediate relief to a distressing currency every fall to meet the wants of the people. He calls it an ideal banking system, because land is the basis and the products of the land would be the adjusting machinery.

Personals.

Mrs. Brown who has been visiting friends and relatives in Bladen returned last Thursday.

Mr. W. G. Hubbard of the firm of A. F. Johnson & Co., returned Tuesday night from the northern market. The new goods are arriving every day and being tastily displayed. See what the firm will have to say in the new ad next week.

Mr. W. R. K. Sloumb, formerly salesman with Mr. M. Hanstein, has accepted a position with Messrs Morris Bear and Bros. of Wilmington. Mr. Hanstein has employed Mr. L. J. Wilson of Hobbs as salesman to take Mr. Sloumb's place.

Mr. D. J. Aaron, the clever editor, of that spicy little paper the Mt. Olive Telegram, gave us a call Tuesday. His paper has completed its second volume and we are glad to state, will appear next week, enlarged and an all home printed paper. Success to the new enterprise.

MINGO.

Whooping cough is raging in this community. Mr. Autry Baggett's entire family of eight children has been suffering with it.

FRANKLIN.

Fire got out last week from Dr. W. B. Murphy's field and did considerable damage. Much of his fence was burned and his residence had narrow escape. The fire was not checked till it reached Black River a distance of 5 or 6 miles.

Among the losers were Mr. Geo. W. Herring, who lost a great deal of fence and some boxes. Dr. W. B. Murphy, who lost about 1,000 panels of fence and 40 barrel course of boxes. Messrs. W. DeVane, R. DeVane, W. H. Marley and N. D. and P. DeVane also lost heavily. A crowded train passed down the C. F. & Y. V. to-day bearing the merchants along that line to the City by the Sea, where they will be given a banquet and excursions to Wrightsville and Carolina Beach.

HALLS.

Died on Sunday the 13th, Mr. Osborn Packer, son of Mr. Lewis Packer. He had been suffering with La Grippe which developed into Meningitis, which caused death in less than a week. The deceased was a fine young man, about 18 years of age. The funeral was preached Monday by Rev. C. P. Jerome.

Mr. J. M. McCullen betted potatoes two weeks ago to day (Thursday) and now they have sprouts and are up with half grown leaves. He will be able to set out sprouts the first rain, if it does not come mighty quick.

NEWTON GROVE.

The County Lecturer delivered an address at Bluff Alliance on the 4th instant. It was timely, replete with good logical common sense talk, and met the expectation and views of the good people present. It is to be hoped that they will ponder well the issues Mr. Butler advanced and that they will be the result of much good even in years to come. He knows how to handle, trusts, syndicates, pools and gamblers in futures and all invaders of the farmers' rights with "gloves off." May the Lord's blessings be added unto them, the Farmers' Alliance and THE CAUCASIAN.

Married, at the residence of Mr. Lorenzo Dameron, in Newton Grove township, April 18th 1890, Mr. S. W. Sutton of Piney Grove to Miss Della Dameron, A. H. King, J. P. officiating. Attendants, Mr. Otis Ward and Miss Anna Dameron, Mr. Lorenzo Dameron, Jr., and Miss Nannie Daughtry, Mr. J. F. Jackson and Miss Mary Ward, Mr. B. A. Sutton and Miss Ida Dameron. The happy couple reached the home of the groom late in the evening. Many relatives and friends were in waiting to greet and congratulate them. May joy and happiness attend them, and their life be long and prosperous.

On the same day Mr. Jas. E. Bass was married to Miss Hattie Sutton, J. A. Warwick, Esq., officiating. On the 3 inst., Mr. J. E. Bryan's school closed at Parker's school house, after a seven months term. Prof. J. D. Ezell made appropriate speech on education, and presented the prize to Miss Lillie Warren for the best improvement in writing, and also to Miss Thornton for best improvement in reading, his presentation speeches were unique.

SHOULD BE SUSTAINED.

As Good or Better than any County Paper in the State. A subscriber writing under date of March 7th, says: I have just finished reading this week's issue and it is, indeed, creditable to you. I trust the people are responding nobly to your calls for what they are due. You, the country, cannot afford to let such a paper go under for the want of funds. It is the best the county ever had and as good or better than any county paper in the State, and as such should be sustained.

LISON.

We welcome Miss Anna V. Herring home again, who has spent eight months in Georgia and Florida, (the land of flowers.) She left Sampson county on the 16th of July last, to visit her sister, Mrs. J. W. Parker, of Saussey Ga. There she had a flourishing school of forty nine pupils, from there she went to Bronson Fla., where she taught a term of four months, she gives glowing descriptions of that country. A fire broke out on the C. F. & Y. V. R. near Tommy Hawk, much damage was done, burning turpentine, timber and leaving many farms destitute of fence.

We miss the Steamer Lisbon, the weather is so dry it is taking a short rest spell. We hope to hear its whistle soon. Times would indeed be dry if it were not for THE CAUCASIAN which always brings a smile to our face.

HONEYCUTTS.

The entertainment given in the "Society Hall" at Salem High School on Friday night April 4th 1890, was a grand success. There were near one hundred people present and were pleased with the proceedings, and we think the majority of us would go again if it were to be repeated. These are the sentiments of a spectator. "MONTIUS."

NORTH CLINTON.

Miss Polly Britt died of consumption on Tuesday and was buried at the old Boyette homestead yesterday. The funeral was preached by Rev. Mr. Britt.

Mrs. Hancock, nee Miss Matthis, died on Monday and was buried at the old Matthis homestead Wednesday.

MCDANIELS.

Miss Penne Morisey returned home last Thursday from a visit to her uncle Mr. David Morisey, of Warsaw.

The Sunday school at Andrews Chapel was organized on last Sunday, Mr. Judson Hobbs Superintendent.

There is a flourishing Sunday school at Elizabeth baptist church, Mr. W. A. Stevens Superintendent.

Mr. E. L. Strickland of Stedman, Cumberland county, accompanied by little Cool and Bessie, is spending some time in this vicinity.

Misses Mollie Boon and Ella Blackmore are visiting relatives in this community, also Miss Lizzie Howard of Timmonsville, S. C.

Miss Katie Rich has been visiting near Parkersburg.

PINEY GROVE.

Mr. H. W. Darden has a flourishing school at Poplar Grove.

There is a young lady in our neighborhood, who says "Hurrah for Sampson's Bill Aray!" Wonder if another county in North Carolina can produce such a "Probability" informer? We are very much interested in his letters, and do not hesitate in saying that they add much to the already valued CAUCASIAN.

The Sunday school at Poplar Grove is evidently improving. The teachers and pupils are laboring under new aspirations.

Miss Sallie Thompson of Duplin was visiting relatives in and around Giddensville, last week.

Mr. G. Brooks is quite ill, at his home. Sometime ago he had several teeth extracted and the effect is feared will result seriously.

Mr. J. O. Pearsall of Mt. Olive was on a flying trip last Saturday and Sunday, to this vicinity.

"Warsaw Items."

Under the above caption appears an article in THE CAUCASIAN of last week signed by "Spritz," which, however well intentioned, puts the Warsaw Baptist church in a false light and thereby tends to injury. It is an old maxim that half truths amount to positive error. Now it is true as "Spritz" states that the New Testament system of benevolence is a voluntary one and a church has no rightful authority to compel any one to pay a fixed levy or tax against his will, but on the other hand it is equally true that when an individual joins a church of Jesus Christ he thereby voluntarily assumes certain covenant obligations to contribute "according to his ability" for the support of the gospel, and this duty will be cheerfully performed if he loves the Saviour and his cause. If Spritz will read on in the New Testament a little further he will find that "Covenant-ness" is laid down as a moral sin which not only excludes a member from a church but ever from the kingdom of heaven. In 1 Cor. 5:11, Paul expressly enjoins the church to hold no fellowship with one guilty of this sin. If a member makes little or no effort to contribute to the cause; if he will contribute only one dollar a year when in all reason he could as readily give five or ten, he is presumably affected by this deadly sin that is eating out his religious life; and when members failing to come up to a reasonable obligation thereby the whole burden of support falls upon a few, the church not only has a right to complain, but it is its duty to inquire into the christian standing of such members. Furthermore when a church engages a pastor at a fixed salary it voluntarily assumes a business obligation which to meet is not an act of benevolence but a duty to pay as much as any other debt, may more so, for it is for God's cause, and he above all is our preferred creditor.

We further call the attention of Spritz to the fact that the titheing system of the Old Testament was not at all enacted by man but by Jehovah himself. It was his own requirement, the minimum sum which he expected of his people as an expression of their loyalty to him and to the support of his cause as well as their own spiritual good. It is by no means clear that the Lord does not expect the same tithe or one tenth as the minimum which one should give under the new dispensation, but it is certainly clear that systematic giving is a duty and a grace which should be cheerfully rendered and not "grudgingly."

Now it is in perfect accord with the foregoing N. T. principles that the Warsaw Baptist church took the action in its late conference attended to by Spritz. In that action the church sought not in the least degree to oppress any one, much less did it exact any sum of any one known to be too poor to pay. In arranging for the pastor's salary the church did voluntarily and unanimously adopt what is known as the apportionment system, wherein by a large and wise committee taking into most careful and prayerful consideration the circumstances of each member a minimum amount was allotted to each one as the very lowest amount which he himself would confess he was able to meet. This is no new system, but has been adopted long since by many of our very best churches, and found to work well, far better than the old slack way that has been an endless source of trouble to the churches in meeting the pastor's salary. In seeking in a perfectly kind and christian manner, and according to New Testament order, to bring some of its members to account for violation of their covenant obligations, the Warsaw church has arranged no one for refusing to pay any certain tax or apportionment, but it has sought solely to deal with those who by continuous refusal to accede to any settlement whatever, have exhausted all reasonable christian forbearance. We believe that if all our churches would thus be more faithful to their discipline they would be far less difficult in the support of the gospel, and the cause would take on new power and influence.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy.

Kingwood, N. C., May 2, 1887. Mrs. Joe Person—Dear Madam:—Most gladly do I give you my name to place before the public, bearing testimony of the miraculous cure effected on me by your most valuable Remedy. Fifteen years ago I was troubled by what seemed to be little scales appearing on the right side of my cheek, under the eye, resembling dry meat skin, which I could remove when I shaved, but they would return again in a short time. Soon an enlargement appeared under the same eye, attended with itching and burning sensations, and sharp, darting pains from the affected place to the eye, causing great difficulty in closing the eye, even to sleep. Sometimes it would feel better, but never at any time disappear. Some physicians pronounced it eczema, others chronic erysipelas, and all advised me to let it alone. This I did until two years ago, when a little scab began to form right under the eye, resembling a wart, which I could not remove; in size and appearance it soon grew to be as large as a strawberry, and the scales came off and left the place entirely raw. Having fear of a cancer, I began to use various kinds of solvents to heat it up, but never could. I consulted with physicians of great experience; they said it looked suspicious of it, and advised me to have it cut or burnt out at once. I did not wish to do either, and being persuaded it was in my blood, I resolved to try your Remedy, as it had been recommended to me. I did so with the most happy result. I can say I am a well man. I cannot say too much for your Remedy; it is worth its weight in gold. Before I had used one bottle I was hopeful, and at the expiration of five weeks the sore was entirely healed, the scales or roughness of the skin all gone, and left me a new man. I will give any one similarly affected any further information they may desire, and can only say if the public will give your Remedy a trial, it will speak for itself, and your success will know no bounds. God speed the day that must dawn upon your future prosperity! Yours most truly, JAS. CARTER ABRINGTON. For sale by Clinton Druggists and by Wm. A. Johnson, Wholesale Agent, Clinton, N. C.

Shakespearean Club.
The last meeting of the club, on last Friday evening at the residence of Capt. E. L. Faison, at Elliot, was a very pleasant occasion, as well as interesting and profitable.

Every member was prepared, and their papers and discussions were very creditable. The next regular meeting will be at the residence of Capt. W. L. Faison, on the evening of the 23rd instant. In view of the fact that the anniversary of the birth as well as the death of the great dramatist, whose works are under study and discussion, occurred near that time, namely, on the 23rd of April, it was decided to arrange an anniversary and memorial program for the next exercises:

PROGRAM:
Mr. T. M. Lee--Classifications of Shakespeare's writings, the mode and reasons.
Mr. W. S. Thomson--The Life and Character of Shakespeare.
Miss Sudie Faison--A Sketch of the Home and tomb of Shakespeare as seen by herself.

Mr. J. C. Sloum--A Recitation, the rendering of the finest passage, appropriate, in his works.
Miss "Little Beaujon"--A paper giving the information asked for in the following questions:

When and where was Shakespeare born? Give his geographical location; near what large town, scene, etc.? Is the house still standing? What other has been made to preserve it? By whom is it owned at present? Is it now resorted to by travelers and lovers of Shakespeare?

Miss Nannie Faison--A paper in answer to the following questions:
What do you know about the parents of Shakespeare? his boyhood? his school days? What stories are extant of his younger days? At what age did he leave Stratford? Had anything occurred at Kenilworth to stimulate his dramatic genius? what have you read of Kenilworth? what did Shakespeare probably do in London, at first? what became his occupation? was he successful? why should you judge so? who were Shakespeare's patrons, and what was their fate.

Mr. E. L. Faison--A paper on the following:
Explain, in some detail, how he wrote his dramas? were the plots original? Mention some sources from which he derived the stories of his plays. Illustrate by Merchant of Venice; Romeo and Juliet; Othello; etc., etc. From what chief sources did Shakespeare get material for writing his historical plays.

Miss Willie Bumgardner will answer:
What was the structure of a theatre in Shakespeare's time? How would it compare with a modern theatre? If you are familiar with the inside of any large theatre, give its difference in detail; scenery--curtain--chairs--gas--actors--costumes, etc. why did he use so many word descriptions in his plays. Does it not rather mar the dramatic effect.

Miss Madge Faison's paper will answer:
Was he slowly trained to writing his best plays, or did he write so from the first? To what extent did he revise the plays of others? His own plays? Did he ever re-write his own plays after trial on the stage?

Dr. J. A. Stevens will give information on the following points:
Could Shakespeare in any sense be called a learned man? we have countless references, showing familiarity with law, medicine, history, philosophy, etc.; how would you account for all this? Could he be called in any sense an educated man? To what extent do his writings embody his own character and personal experience, who was the original of Falstaff, and how did this personation show Shakespeare's political bias.

Mr. F. R. Cooper on the following:
Do some disbelieve that Shakespeare wrote the plays accredited to him. Give some particulars of the Baconian-Shakespearean controversy, with some arguments pro and con, which play or plays (if any) of Shakespeare show evidence of a joint authorship, and who are supposed to have been his co-authors.

Miss Bettie Murphy on the following:
Were his plays popular from the first, what proof of this. Have they always remained popular. Their rank in literature to-day. Queen Elizabeth's request.

Miss Mary Lou Brown will answer:
Mention some famous actors of his plays, editions, commentators, students, etc. Mention some extracts from his plays which have passed into popular speech.

Miss Florence Faison--Her paper will answer:
What is known concerning his personal traits. Have you ever read anything about Ireland's celebrated forgeries of Shakespeare's plays, give full particulars, who is meant by the Marlowesque--Shakespeare Group. Mention plays, included in it and give characterizing style.

Miss Nela Fovle will give a paper on the following:
Was Shakespeare's genius creative or reproductive. State which and give reasons. State principal events, in English history occurring during Shakespeare's life. Give the five greatest English dramatists, in order of merit.

Miss Rena Micks' paper will answer:
When did Shakespeare die. Did he leave any descendants. Is his family extinct. How much of Shakespeare have you read, and how he is buried in Westminster Abbey.

A NEW BOOK
From Southern Pens for Northern Eyes. Representatives Herbert, of Alabama, Hemphill, of South Carolina, Turner, of Georgia, Stewart, of Texas, Wilson, of West Virginia, ex-Representative Barksdale, of Mississippi, and Senators Vance, of North Carolina, Pasco, of Florida, Vest, of Missouri, and W. M. Fishback, of Arkansas, Ira P. Jones, of Tennessee, O. S. Long, of West Virginia, and B. J. Sage, of Louisiana, have collectively written and will soon publish a book entitled "Why Solid South?" or Reconstruction and its Results." Each chapter is signed by its author, who thus becomes directly responsible for the truth of his statement. The book is dedicated to the business men of the North, with the statement that they are interested in continuing the prosperity of the South.

Many Lives, Histories, or Biographies of the late Jefferson Davis, purporting to be written by Mrs. Jefferson Davis, are being advertised throughout the country. The only genuine work of the kind written by Mrs. Jefferson Davis is that to be published by BELFORD COMPANY, 18-22 East 18th Street, New York, entitled "Jefferson Davis, Ex-President of the Confederate States: A Memoir, by His Wife." subscription, and territory is being rapidly assigned. The work promises to be one of the most popular ever published, and those desiring to canvass for it should apply at once to the publishers, who will furnish circulars and information.

"Statutes" is often misprinted "statues," and in some cases it is hardly an error, for many statutes appear in popular vices are only dead statues, "like a painted Jove holding idle thunder in their lifted hands."

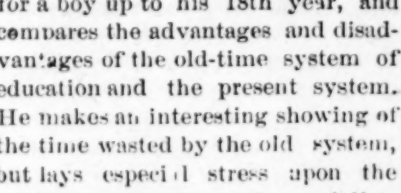

THE FORUM FOR APRIL.
The Forum one of the ablest, if not the very ablest magazine in the United States, in its April number contains a notable posthumous article by the late President Barnard, of Columbia College, on the degradation of our politics, in which he shows that the substitution of personal reward for public duty as the prime motive of political activity has changed the whole character of government to so great a degree that it is no longer a republic but an oligarchy of machine politics; and the popular conception of the functions of government has itself undergone a change. This is perhaps the most notable of all President Barnard's writings. President Timothy Dwight, of Yale University, lays out a proper course of study for a boy up to his 18th year, and compares the advantages and disadvantages of the old-time system of education and the present system. He makes an interesting showing of the time wasted by the old system, but lays especial stress upon the modern production of specialists rather than of men. Frances Power Cobbe makes a review of the changes in human nature that have been developed by modern civilization to show wherein we are better, and wherein we are worse than the ancients. The Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, the successor of Henry Ward Beecher in Plymouth pulpit, points out the difference between the "new theology" and the "old theology," or between liberal orthodoxy and agnosticism. He explains the idea that advanced orthodox thinkers hold of the Feity, of personal immortality, and of the interpretation of the Scriptures; and he shows how these ideas differ more widely from the position of unbelievers than from the orthodoxy of the past. Chas. Dudley Warner, in an article, The Newspapers and the Public, undertakes to show where the blame rests for ultra-sensational papers. He undertakes to explain why it is that those newspapers that have the widest circulation are those that meet the severest criticism. He finds an interesting answer in an analysis of the American character. Mr. C. Wood Davis, who has given long study to the subject, constructs an argument to show that the prime reason for agricultural depression is the overproduction of farm products. He presents statistics showing that the increase of the production of farm products has been greater than the increase of population. There is much fallacy in this article but it will serve to put the farmer to thinking. Dr. J. M. Charcot contributes another article about his experiments on hypnotic persons--this time to show that crimes can be committed upon hypnotized people, and how they can be induced by hypnotizers to commit crime. There is an article by Francis Minor, advocating woman suffrage, in which he points out how every experiment hitherto made in this direction has been successful. The Rev. Dr. William Barry writes on the Rights of Public Property to show that monopoly is but the appropriation by individuals of things that properly belong to society; and Richard Hodgson, secretary of the Society for Psychical Research, tells where trickery in spiritualism ends, and where really interesting phenomena begins.

Every article is ably written and well worthy of careful reading and study.

Dyspepsia
Makes the lives of many people miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. Distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite, a faint, "all gone" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels, are some of the more common symptoms. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful, persistent attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet surely and efficiently. It tones the stomach and other organs, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, and by thus Sick Headache overcoming the local symptoms. It gave me an appetite, and what I did eat I digested. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat I did not digest. In an hour after eating I would experience a faintness, or tired, all gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble, I think, was aggravated by my business, which is that of a painter, and from being more or less shut up in a room with fresh paint. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla--took three bottles. It did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced." Shakespearean Club.
The last meeting of the club, on last Friday evening at the residence of Capt. E. L. Faison, at Elliot, was a very pleasant occasion, as well as interesting and profitable.
Every member was prepared, and their papers and discussions were very creditable. The next regular meeting will be at the residence of Capt. W. L. Faison, on the evening of the 23rd instant. In view of the fact that the anniversary of the birth as well as the death of the great dramatist, whose works are under study and discussion, occurred near that time, namely, on the 23rd of April, it was decided to arrange an anniversary and memorial program for the next exercises.

PROGRAM:
Mr. T. M. Lee--Classifications of Shakespeare's writings, the mode and reasons.
Mr. W. S. Thomson--The Life and Character of Shakespeare.
Miss Sadie Faison--A Sketch of the Home and Tomb of Shakespeare as seen by herself.

Mr. J. C. Sloum--A Recitation, the rendering of the finest passage, appropriate, in his works.
Miss "Little Beau--A paper giving the information asked for in the following questions:

When and where was Shakespeare born? Give his geographical location; near what large town, scenery, etc.? Is the house still standing? What effort has been made to preserve it? By whom is it owned at present? Is it much resorted to by travelers and lovers of Shakespeare?

Miss Nannie Faison--A paper in answer to the following questions:
What do you know about the parents of Shakespeare? his boyhood? his school days? What stories are extant of his younger days? At what age did he leave Stratford? Had anything occurred at Stratford to stimulate his dramatic genius? What have you read of Keatsworth? what did Shakespeare probably do in London, at first? what became his occupation? was he successful? why should you judge so? who were Shakespeare's patrons, and what was their fate.

Mr. E. L. Faison--A paper on the following:
Explain, in some detail, how he wrote his dramas? were the plots original? Mention some sources from which he derived the stories of his plays. Illustrate by Merchant of Venice; Romeo and Juliet; Othello; etc., etc. From what chief sources did Shakespeare get material for writing his historical plays.

Miss Willie Bumgardner will answer:
What was the structure of a theatre in Shakespeare's time? How would it compare with a modern theatre? If you are familiar with the inside of any large theatre, give its difference in detail: scenery--certain machinery--gates--actors--costumes, etc. why did he use so many word descriptions in his plays. Does it not rather mar the dramatic effect.

Miss Madge Faison's paper will answer:
Was he slowly trained to writing his best plays, or did he write so from the first? To what extent did he revise the plays of others? His own plays? Did he ever re-write his own plays after trial on the stage?

Dr. J. A. Stevens will give information on the following points:
Could Shakespeare in any sense be called a learned man? we have countless references, showing familiarity with law, medicine, history, philosophy, etc.; how would you account for all this? Could he be called in any sense an unlearned man? To what extent do his writings embody his own character and personal experience, who was the original of Falstaff, and how did this personation show Shakespeare's political bias.

Mr. F. R. Cooper on the following:
Do some disbelieve that Shakespeare wrote the plays accredited to him. Give some particulars of the Bacon-Shakespeare controversy, with some arguments pro and con, which play or plays (if any) of Shakespeare show evidence of a joint authorship, and who are supposed to have been his co-authors.

Miss Bettie Murphy on the following:
Were his plays popular from the first, what proof of this. Have they always remained popular. Their rank in literature to-day. Queen Elizabeth's regard.

Miss Mary Lou Brown will answer:
Mention some famous actors of his plays, editions, commentators, students, etc. Mention some extracts from his plays which have passed into popular speech.

Miss Florence Faison--Her paper will answer:
What is known concerning his personal appearance, his tastes, his habits, his MSS., his traits. Have you ever read anything about Ireland's celebrated forgeries of Shakespeare's plays, give full particulars, what is meant by the Marlowesque-Shakespeare Group. Mention plays, included in it and give characterizing style.

Miss Nela Foy will give a paper on the following:
Was Shakespeare's genius creative or reproductive, state which and give reasons. State principal incidents in his life, including his death during Shakespeare's life. Give the five greatest English dramatists, in order of merit.

Miss Rena Micks' paper will answer:
When did Shakespeare die. Did he leave any descendants. Is his family extinct. How much of Shakespeare have you read, why was he not buried in Westminster Abbey.

A NEW BOOK
From Southern Pens for Northern Eyes. Representatives Herbert, of Alabama, Hemphill, of South Carolina, Turner, of Georgia, Stewart, of Texas, Wilson, of West Virginia, ex-Representative Barksdale, of Mississippi, and Senators Vance, of North Carolina, Pascoe, of Florida, Vest, of Missouri, and W. M. Fishback, of Arkansas, Ira P. Jones, of Tennessee, O. S. Long, of West Virginia, and B. J. Sage, of Louisiana, have collectively written and now publish a book entitled "Why Solid South?" or, Reconstruction and its Results." Each chapter is signed by its author, who thus becomes directly responsible for the truth of his statement. The book is dedicated to the business men of the North, with the statement that they are interested in continuing the prosperity of the South.

Many Lives, Histories, or Biographies of the late Jefferson Davis, purporting to be written by Mrs. Jefferson Davis, are being advertised throughout the country. The only genuine work of the kind written by Mrs. Jefferson Davis is that to be published by Belford Company, 18-22 East 18th Street, New York, entitled "Jefferson Davis, Ex-President of the Confederate States: A Memoir, by His Wife." All other works claiming the authorship of Mrs. Jefferson Davis must necessarily be injurious to her personally and pecuniarily. The book is sold by subscription, and territory is being rapidly assigned. The work promises to be one of the most popular ever published, and those desiring to canvass for it should apply at once to the publishers, who will furnish circulars and information.

"Statutes" is often misprinted "statues," and in some cases it is hardly an error, for many statutes against popular vices are only dead letters. "Like a painted Jove holding idle thunder in their lifted hands."

THE FORUM FOR APRIL.

The Forum one of the ablest, if not the very ablest magazine in the United States, in its April number contains a notable posthumous article by the late President Barnard, of Columbia College, on the degradation of our politics, in which he shows that the substitution of personal reward for public duty as the prime motive of political activity has changed the whole character of government to so great a degree that it is no longer a republic but an oligarchy of machine politics; and the popular conception of the functions of government has itself undergone a change. This is perhaps the most notable of all President Barnard's writings. President Timothy Dwight, of Yale University, lays out a proper course of study for a boy up to his 18th year, and compares the advantages and disadvantages of the old-time system of education and the present system. He makes an interesting showing of the time wasted by the old system, but lays especial stress upon the modern production of specialists rather than of men. Frances Power Cobbe makes a review of the changes in human nature that have been developed by modern civilization to show wherein we are better, and wherein we are worse than the ancients. The Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, the successor of Henry Ward Beecher in Plymouth pulpit, points out the difference between the "new theology" and the "no theology," or between liberal orthodoxy and agnosticism. He explains the idea that advanced orthodox thinkers hold of the Feity, of personal immortality, and of the interpretation of the Scriptures; and he shows how these ideas differ more widely from the position of unbelievers than from the orthodoxy of the past. Chas. Dudley Warner, in an article, The Newspapers and the Public, undertakes to show where the blame rests for ultra-sensational papers. He undertakes to explain why it is that those newspapers that have the widest circulation are those that meet the severest criticism. He finds an interesting answer in an analysis of the American character. Mr. C. Wood Davis, who has given long study to the subject, constructs an argument to show that the prime reason for agricultural depression is the overproduction of farm products. He presents statistics showing that the increase of the production of farm products has been greater than the increase of population. There is much fallacy in this article but it will serve to put the farmer to thinking. Dr. J. M. Charcot contributes another article about his experiments on hypnotic persons--this time to show that crimes can be committed upon hypnotized people, and how they can be induced by hypnotizers to commit crime. There is an article by Francis Minor, advocating woman suffrage, in which he points out how every experiment hitherto made in this direction has been successful. The Rev. Dr. William Barry writes on the Rights of Public Property to show that monopoly is but the appropriation by individuals of things that properly belong to society; and Richard Hodgson, secretary of the Society for Psychological Research, tells where trickery in spiritualism ends, and where really interesting phenomena begins.

Every article is ably written and well worthy of careful reading and study.

The New Discovery.

You have heard your friends and neighbors talking about it. You may yourself be one of the many who know from personal experience just how good a thing it is. If you have ever tried it, you are one of its staunch friends, because the wonderful thing about it is, that when once given a trial, Dr. King's New Discovery ever after holds a place in the house. If you have never used it, and should be afflicted with cough, cold or any Throat, Lung or Chest trouble, secure a bottle at once and give it a fair trial. It is guaranteed every time, or money refunded. Trial bottles free at Dr. R. H. Holliday's Drugstore, Clinton, N. C.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. Distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite, a faint, "all gone" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels, are some of the more common symptoms. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful, systematic attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet surely and efficiently. It tones the stomach and other organs, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, and by thus overcoming the local symptoms removes the cause of the disease, banishes the headache, and refreshes the tired mind.

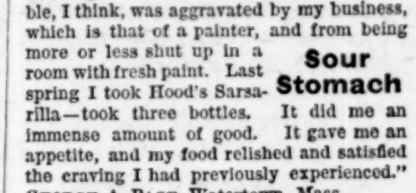

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat was not digested. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla--took three bottles. It did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced." GEORGE A. PAGE, Watertown, Mass.
